(3) Explanation of missed deadlines

In December 2010, the Department missed the following deadlines:

Deadline missed	Reason
Remove national Stop and Account recording and	Ministers remain committed to reducing the reduce certain Stop and Search procedures	bureaucracy that gets in the way of frontline police officers doing their job most effectively.
	However, stop and search remains an issue of concern to many communities, particularly those of a black or minority ethnic background, and additional time was taken to confirm the content of the draft Code of Practice with civil liberties groups. This delayed the laying before Parliament of the PACE Code of Practice Order that is necessary to make the changes. The Order was tabled on 17 November, but due to the pressures on Parliamentary time it could not be debated before Christmas. The Order will be debated after the House returns in January, and will take effect 21 days after it is passed by Parliament.
Develop proposals for functions currently	Initial scoping work on the range of functions performed by the NPIA	currently performed by NPIA and their operational importance to police forces has been completed. A new significant factor has been the far reaching recommendations of Peter Neyroud's review into police leadership delivered to the Home Secretary just before Christmas. Further proposals are expected to be firmed up by mid February Undertake and publish a review of counter- terrorism and security legislation, working with the Department for Communities and Local Government on the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act	The review is considering the most sensitive and controversial counter-terrorism and security powers, including the use of control orders. These are difficult and complex issues and it is essential to get these decisions right. The Home Secretary will announce the outcome of the review to Parliament when the review is completed. This is most likely to be early in the New Year.

Develop and publish proposals for the storage and acquisition of internet and e-mail records	It has been the Home Office's intention to publish proposals for the storage and acquisition of internet and email records by December 2010. Work on the proposals has been underway but is dependent on the CT Powers Review of counter-terrorism and security legislation, which includes addressing public authorities' powers to acquire communications data and additional safeguards for local authorities acquisition of data. The publication of proposals on the storage and acquisition of internet and email records will therefore follow the conclusion of the counter-terrorism powers review.
Determine policy changes to extend the UK's ability to deport foreign nationals, as part of the review of counter-terrorism and security legislation	Work to determine policy changes is on track, but the announcement of these will take place in line with the wider review of counterterrorism and security legislation which is ongoing. This review is considering the most sensitive and controversial counter-terrorism and security powers, including the use of control orders. These are difficult and complex issues and it is essential to get these decisions right. The Home Secretary will announce the outcome of the review to Parliament when the review is completed. This is most likely to be early in the New Year.
Review the 'Prevent' strand of the counter- terrorism strategy	Public consultation and regional events have taken place in November and December 2010, and these have now been extended into January 2011. To allow full consideration of the evidence obtained, the review deadline has been put back to January 2011.
Develop and publish a revised 'Prevent' strategy	Work to develop a new Prevent strategy will commence in January 2011 with a planned end date of February 2011.
Decide whether further legislation will be required to ensure a safe and secure Games	Ministers are currently considering whether further legislation will be required to ensure a safe and secure Games.

The status of missed deadlines from previous reports is:

Deadline missed	Status	Reason
Develop proposals for a new, simplified set of anti-social behaviour powers and tools (Sep 2010)	Still not complete	The Home Secretary set out the Government's direction on anti-social behaviour in her speech of 28 July. The Home Office has been working on implementing that vision so the police and other local agencies have the tools and powers to crack down on perpetrators. Work on a new, simplified set of anti-social behaviour powers and tools will be completed shortly, and we will set our proposals out in a Review current measures for the detention of children for immigration purposes (Aug 2010)	Complete	The conclusions of the review on ending the detention of children for immigration purposes were announced on 16 December. As a transitional arrangement, Tinsley House Immigration Removal Centre will continue to be used until May while new pre-departure accommodation for families is being established.
